Event Features

Military to civilian career transitions are never easy but many service members are finding unique ways to find a new mission, continue their services and thrive in the world of business. Veteran entrepreneurship is on the rise. Veterans transitioning into civilian careers are choosing less traditional models of employment and putting their military skills to good use. If you are willing to entertain all of your options in the workforce or are just looking to understand how entrepreneurs and start ups are helping you and your industry please join us for a special look at VETERAN ENTREPRENEURSHIP.
